ABOUT THE SEMINAR

Recently, personal data privacy has raised public concern following a series of personal data leaking and transfer incidents. As personal data is used for providing value-added services and direct marketing purpose, it is important to know how to safeguard its leakage.

In this seminar, Mr. Koo and Mr. Tam will talk about the data protection framework as well as industry practices in protecting personal data privacy with case studies. They will also share their views on how organizations can strike a balance between offering additional convenience to customers and protecting their data privacy.
