Construction Contract Management for Accountants

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Mr. Neil Roberts is a Chartered Quantity Surveyor who has worked in the construction industry for 25 years and has spent 18 years working on projects in Hong Kong providing commercial management, contract administration, dispute resolution and avoidance, cost management and project management services in contracting, client and consultant organisations. He is a Member of the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors and Hong Kong Institute of Surveyors and a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators.

Neil is the General Manager (Administration) of Hip Hing Construction Co., Ltd. where his role includes providing contract advisory services to support the operations of the company and its project teams. This involves providing advice on the contractual and commercial risks of construction contracts and the contractual and commercial management of construction contracts. It also involves the preparation, defence, negotiation and settlement of contractual claims and the resolution of contractual and commercial disputes.

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

The procurement of construction work is complex, and a successful outcome can be elusive. It is remarkably different from purchasing almost any other commodity associated with commercial activity. Construction contracts often use complex standard forms of contract which are adapted extensively and are comprised of a large volume and variety of documents.

The talk will discuss:

- the principal functions of a construction contract;
- the types of construction contract commonly used in Hong Kong;
- the documents which form a construction contract;
- the key characteristics of construction contracts; and
- the principal risks associated with construction contracts.
