About the programme

Worrying about your financial position? Stumbling for redundancy? Struggling with 24/7 endless work?

Whilst we are unsure of when the global financial tsunami will end, more successful accountants and professionals are ones who have the foresight in finding a way to ride on top of this tidal wave instead of getting hit by it.

Neuro-Linguistic Programming ("NLP") has been well known as a business communication tool for effective networking, team bonding and interpersonal leadership. More importantly, NLP is a methodology that facilitates excellent state and mindset management in turning crisis into opportunities.

Course objectives

By the end of this 3-hour seminar, participants will:

- Be aware of how to stay on top and be competitive in this stumbling economy
- Understand the philosophy of NLP and its applications in business
- Be aware of how the human mind functions and how to deal with challenges at work
- Understand and manage one's emotions and those of others in the workplace
- Learn how to enhance one's business communication skills and be assertive
